Beckham

Beckham, March 29.- Yesterday was such a pretty day, with flowers and fruit trees in bloom, it surely was a typical spring day. Today is much colder and just the reverse in temperature.

Reb. L. C. Moore, of Hampton, was a visitor of his brother, J. L. Moore, last Thursday night. He also called to see Mr. and Mrs. H. R. Moore, of Beckham before leaving for his home Friday.

We regret to hear of the death of James W. Grow, which occurred at his home last night at 7:30, after several weeks illness. He was born and reared in this county and was 68 years of age. His first wife was Miss Laura Whitehead, who preceded him to the grave about four years ago. Besides his wife, he is survived by his only sister, Mrs. Esmonia C. Martin, and a number of nephews and nieces. He will be buried this evening at the family cemetery, near his home.

Mrs. A. F. Drinkard has returned home after spending two weeks in Lynchburg, with her aunt, Mrs. Ida Carson, who resides with her sister, Mrs. J. P. Carson.

Mr. and Mrs. Howlett Drinkard, and family and Miss Frances Drinkard, of Lynchburg and Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Drinkard and children of Oakville were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Drinkard.

Mr. and Mrs. Jutson Morris and children, of Appomattox and Miss Virginia Morris, of Appomattox, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Morris. Also Mr. and Mrs. T. R. Martin and daughter, and daughter, Faye, were guests in his home.

Mrs. A. F. Drinkard spent last Friday with Mrs. H. R. Moore and Mrs. Winston Martin was an all-day guest of Mrs. T. R. Martin Jr. the same day.

Government war expenditures in February of this year were more than 4 1-2 times the United States public debt on March 31, 1917.

In Great Britain, when the present six month's surplus stocks of hats are exhausted, women will be able to buy new hats only at the rate of one every three years and men only one hat every five years.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

PETER AND JOHN BECOME DISCIPLES OF JESUS

LESSON TEXT—John 1:29-42; Mark 1:16-20.

GOLDEN TEXT—And Jesus said unto them, Come ye after me, and I will make you to become fishers of men.—Mark 1:17.

Personal faith in Christ is the heart of Christian experience. Since persons are won by other persons it was vitally important that the Lord choose the right disciples at the very beginning of the Church. Outstanding among the twelve disciples were Peter and John, whose lives and letters we study during the next three months.

The manner in which they became disciples is of unusual interest—and is instructive as well. We will observe that our Lord is working in much the same way on the Peters and Johns of our own day. They came to Him by way of

I. Testimony—They Heard About Jesus (John 1:29-34, 41).

John, who modestly refrains from naming himself (v. 40), learned about Jesus from John the Baptist. His testimony is notable for its pointed presentation of Christ, and its unmistakable desire that they follow Him. John was an intense preacher with a vigorous message, but he recognized that his only real business for God was to point men to Christ. He enjoyed having men follow him, but only that he might lead them to Jesus.

In doing Christian work we should learn so to bear our testimony that we may magnify Christ, and not ourselves. We must be careful to win men to Christ, and not to ourselves or our cause or church.

Peter was brought to Jesus by his brother Andrew. Andrew was a quiet, modest man of whom we do not read that he preached a single sermon. But he did do personal work (see John 6:8, 9; 12:21, 22). He has been called "Andrew the finder." May "his tribe" increase. We need more like him.

Hearing about Jesus is not enough. There must be the next step, the indispensable personal meeting with the Lord.

II. Experience—They Saw Jesus (John 1:35-39, 42).

The necessity of a personal experience with Christ is so clearly stated in Scripture that one can only marvel that it is so neglected in many churches today.

Neither John the Baptist nor, later, Andrew was content to tell about Jesus. They brought John and Peter to the Lord. John said, "Behold the Lamb of God" (v. 36); and Andrew "brought him to Jesus" (v. 42). These sum up the soul-winner's duty. We must bring our family, our friends, yes, the stranger with whom we deal, into the presence of Jesus.

He will look into their eyes and into their souls and see in them all the gifts and graces which may make them useful to Him (v. 42). John was the brother of James and Peter the brother of Andrew—just two humble fishermen in the sight of men. But Jesus saw in them two of the most useful men who have ever lived. Let us give Him a chance to deal with our friends and acquaintances.

Hearing and seeing are both excellent, but they lack one final step—and here it is—

III. Action—They Followed Jesus (John 1:40; Mark 1:18-20).

First of all they followed Jesus in becoming believers on Him as the Messiah. That expression of John's we find in John 1:40, and of Peter's (by inference) in verse 42. There is no salvation apart from that act of the will which follows a knowledge of Christ.

In the passage in Mark we find Him calling them to leave their secular calling as fishers of fish to follow Him and become fishers of men. Before they could become what He wanted them to be, they had to do something—rise up and follow Him.

Their unquestioning response indicated their faith, but, more than that, it showed that they were the kind of obedient men who could be used of the Lord. Jesus might have called His disciples from the learned and the mighty. But one wonders whether they would have been willing to respond without argument, and to learn of Him without prejudice or preconceived ideas of theology.

God must often pass the mighty and the noble of this world, and call those who are foolish enough to believe Him and obey (read I Cor. 1:17-29). The reason is given there—"That no flesh should glory in his presence." The glory belongs to the Lord, not to His servants.

Because they did obey they became "fishers of men." He led them, trained them, encouraged them, blessed them, and used them.

A disciple is a "learner," but he is learning for a purpose. Learning for its own sake, as an ornament or a selfish pleasure, is always a sad thing, but with the disciple of Christ it cannot be that if he rightly knows Christ.

The disciple is to win other disciples. That is the very heart of Christian witness.

THE OLD JUDGE SAYS...

"Had any news from George and his family since they moved away, Judge?"
"Yes, I had a letter from him day before yesterday. He's in Kentucky...the family's fine and they all like it there. George says he has a fine job in a beverage distillery. He brought out an interesting point in his letter I hadn't thought of before. He said that while the beverage distillers are working 24 hours a day, 7 days a week turning out war alcohol for the government for ammunition, tires, medical supplies and chemicals, they still are able to account for nearly a billion and a half dollars in taxes each year. That's on account of the fact that beverage distillers, though working 100% for the government, are still able to supply the public with beverages from the reserve stocks made during peacetime.
"Quite an unusual case, isn't it, Jim?

HENRY MORTON MARSHALL Sr.—1943

At 11 P. M., March 24, H. M. Marshall, aged away at his home in Hixburg, Va. He was the son of the late John Henry and Susan Catherine Marshall. He spent his boyhood days on the farm. In the early 90's he clerked in the store of the late W. H. Ligon in Hixburg. About 35 years ago he bought out the business of Mr. Ligon and ran that mercantile business in his own name until about six months ago, when ill health forced him to retire from business. Mr. Marshall possessed a jovial disposition, was a very popular merchant, loved by all, one of the leading citizens of his section. His place of business was a gathering center for the neighbors to enjoy the exchange of the neighborhood news.

Mr. Marshall first married Miss Blanche Gilliam, daughter of the late Mr. Robert Gilliam; she passed away in 1920. His second wife was Miss Alice Gilliam, daughter of the late Mr. Van Gilliam, Sr., with whom, son, Morton Marshall, Jr., survive. He also leaves one brother, James E. Marshall of Big Stone Gap, Wise County; and two sisters, Mrs. Joel Wilkins, of Farmville, and Mrs. E. W. Gilliam, of Hixburg, Va. Mr. Marshall was a member of the Hixburg Presbyterian Church. He was laid to rest in the family burying ground at the old Marshall home. Services were conducted by his pastor, Rev. R. E. Redding, assisted by Rev. N. W. Kuykendall, pastor of the Buckingham Presbyterian Church, and Rev. W. M. Black, pastor of Hamplin Baptist Church.

Begin Cancer Campaign

PROCLAMATION

One of the obligations of those who are participating in this war on the home front is to help maintain the morale of those on the battle line. One of the threats is fear about the health and welfare of relatives back home.

During the first year of war, cancer killed 160,000 citizens of this country, more than did the enemy, today, when manpower in power production is of paramount interest, the preservation of so many lives is a finitely part of the war effort, as well as being a humanitarian project.

Authorities say that from half to two-thirds of these annual deaths could be prevented if everyone knew the early signs of cancer and went to his doctor promptly for treatment.

The objective of the Virginia Cancer Foundation is to teach every one the early signs of cancer, to impress on all the necessity for prompt treatment if cure is to be prevented, and to provide treatment to indigent victims of cancer.

We therefore designate the month of April as "Cancer Control Month" in Appomattox and urge everyone to familiarize himself with the facts about cancer and to participate, as actively as possible in the work of the Virginia Cancer Foundation.

Red Cross Drive Court

The April term of the Circuit Court of Appomattox county convened here today, with Judge Joel Flood presiding. The grand jury held its sessions this morning.

Otis Puckett, charged with the murder of William Starry, of Buffalo more, last Thanksgiving, will go on trial for a second time Friday. His first trial, in December, resulted in a hung jury. In the first trial it was charged that Puckett shot and killed Starry while the two men were hunting near Hixburg. Puckett is said to have boatded in the Starry home in Baltimore.

A great crowd attended the first trial of this case, and another large crowd is expected tomorrow. It is possible that this trial may not be completed in one day, although the court will probably order a night session Friday night if necessary.

RED CROSS TO HAVE NUTRITION CLASS

At no other time in the history of our nation has food been as important as it is today.

Food is a munition of war. To be able to go all out to win this war to be able to fight on the home front as our boys in uniform are fighting, we need to know the foods that are necessary to keep our bodies well, to know how to plan meals, so we can use to a better advantage the foods available. These and many other problems will be discussed at the Red Cross Nutrition Class soon to be started.

There is a need for Red Cross canteen workers in Appomattox county. To be eligible for the canteen corps, a certificate from a Red Cross nutrition class is necessary. As soon as these courses are finished a canteen corps will be organized.

Red Cross nutrition classes will soon be started at Appomattox and Hamplin. Those in Appomattox interested may register with Mrs. R. W. Stanley, at Farmers National Bank, and Miss Catherine Davidson, at Bank of Appomattox. Those at Hamplin may register with Mrs. Appomattox. A sufficient number have registered notice will be given as to when the courses are to begin.

N. Y. A. TRAINING COURSE

Boys and girls, except those needed on farms, between the ages of 16 and 24, inclusive, who desire to better their condition and at the same time render service, are urged to meet in the basement of the Appomattox high school between 2:30 and 4 P. M. on Tuesday, April 6, and receive information about N. Y. A. training.

This announcement is made by Miss Eula May Burke, and Mrs. Cox, of the NYA.

Tea Honoring Miss Gunter

On Monday afternoon, March twenty-ninth, the Hamplin faculty entertained at a tea honoring Miss Bessie Gunter, whose marriage to Mr. William David O'Brien, of Appomattox, will take place April ninth.

The wedding note was carried out in yellow and white with crystal bowls of jonquils and tall yellow tapers attractively arranged around a miniature bride and groom. A beautiful white frosted wedding cake was cut by Miss Gunter.

The honoree was presented with a piece of silver.
